Let's Go Fish!
Arrangement for Choir and Piano

This choral anthem was written for the choir of Centenary United Methodist Church in Lambertville, NJ.
It was commissioned by Pastor Anna Gillette for use during her Eastertide sermon,
"Gone Fishin': Fishing Tales from the Gospels" in conjunction with Lambertville's annual Shad Fest, held when the shad come through their part of the river.
This arrangement is designed for use by two-part choir with soloist and piano.

not what others see. I try hard not to stand apart and know that something's wrong. Like Peter in the boat, I think I've known it all along: I should be fishing. Let's go fishing, fishing with the Lord. There's people out there waiting for a fresh and mighty word.

It's not the church they're seek-ing; it's God's true love we're preach-ing. Come on, let's get outside these walls! Let's go fish!

then

We work so hard to run the church and tell folks what to do; someone gets their feelings hurt and sends the word they're through. The preacher keeps on preaching, the choir keeps going too; like Peter on the boat, we're all just wondering what to do.

We should be fishing! Let's go fishing, fishing with the Lord. There's people out there waiting for a fresh and mighty word. It's not the church they're seek-ing; it's God's true love we're preach-ing.

Come on, let's get out-side these walls! Let's go fish!

Spoken, not sung

Fish-ing for the strong; fish-ing for the weak; fish-ing for the stranger who lives down the street.
Spoken, not sung

weak, meek,

Fish-ing for the rich, fish-ing for the poor; fish-ing for the knock-er who comes to the door. Strong, proud,

Ev-ry-bod-y's wel-come to sit at Christ's feet. Let's go fish-ing, fish-ing with the Lord.

Let's go fish-ing, fish-ing with the Lord.

Let's go fish-ing, fish-ing with the Lord.

There's peo-ple out there wait-ing
for a fresh and mighty word. It's not the church they're seeking; it's God's true love we're preaching.

Come on, let's get outside these walls! Let's go fish!
